

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Enhanced transdermal composition comprising a niosome, which retains within its structure a cyclodextrin inclusion complex of a steroidal active agent and a vesicle of nonionic surfactant are provided herein, which increases the permeability of dermal tissue to transdermally administered steroidal active agents. Methods for producing the enhanced transdermal composition as well as its application are also provided.